Navratri Celebration

Date: 05/10/2024

Navratri is a significant Hindu festival celebrated with devotion and enthusiasm across India and by Indian communities worldwide. The term "Navratri" translates to "nine nights" in Sanskrit, during which devotees' worship different forms of Goddess Durga.

With the gracious permission of the management of Vidyabharti Trust, a vibrant Garba event was held at the Engineering college Ground within the Vidyabharti Campus. Students and staff members adorned themselves in traditional attire, adding to the festive and colourful ambiance. Alongside the Garba celebration, a Thali Decoration Competition was also organized, enhancing the excitement of the occasion.

The principals, along with faculty members, performed the traditional Garba Aarti. The venue was beautifully decorated with flowers, colourful lights, and traditional rangoli, giving the campus a festive vibe. The garba celebrations began at 2.00 pm in the campus with the Chant "Bolo Ambe Mat Ki Jay"

Various competitions such as Best traditional, Best Performances and best ethnic wear were held, allowing students to display their talents and creativity.

Prizes were given for Best Khelaiya Traditional Dressing and Non-Traditional to girls and boys. Similarly, prizes were also given to the best Photo of the day, Reel of the day, Photo of the Day, Arti Thali Decoration and Garbi Decoration.

The Navratri celebration at our college was a resounding success, filled with joy, cultural exchange, and spirited participation. It provided a platform for students to bond over traditions, appreciate cultural diversity, and showcase their talents, making it a memorable experience for everyone involved.

The celebration witnessed enthusiastic participation from students across different departments. Students and faculty members attended, creating a vibrant and inclusive atmosphere. Social media platforms were utilized to promote the events, and live streaming allowed those unable to attend in person to participate virtually

We extend our heartfelt thanks to the cultural committee, student volunteers, and sponsors for their invaluable support. Special gratitude goes to the faculty and administration for their encouragement and active participation.
